

Millionaire Shipowner Livanos Dies

LAUSANNE, Switzerland,

May 28 (UPI)—Stavros Livanos, publicity-shy Greek shipping magnate, died here today. He was believed to be about 70.

Officials at Nestle Hospital said death apparently was caused by a heart attack.

Livanos, who started life as a fisherman, controlled one of the largest private fleets in the world. His fleet was rivaled in Greece only by those of his sons-in-law, Stavros Niarchos and Aristotle Onassis.

The Livanos daughters were much better known than their father. Jenny married Niarchos. Tina married Onassis, later divorcing him. She is now married to Britain's Marquis of Blandford.

Livanos owned homes in London and New York and kept an apartment in Paris, but always remained fond of Kartheria, the Greek village where he was born.
